Salisbury Pharmacy

The original Salisbury Pharmacy building was built in the mid-late 1940's on the corner of Main & Douglas Streets by a school teacher named Reg Coates. At the time, the building operated as a restaurant, but also sold some medicines – what they termed patent medicines: such as Aspirin, Iodine, some cough medicines, etc... We've been told that Clarence and Greta Dryden operated the restaurant from 1953 to 1958.

Douglas O'Neill bought the building and established the Salisbury Pharmacy Ltd in 1959. He owned it until 1991 when it was sold to Aquila & Gail Bourque. Dyson Jones purchased the business in 2006 and continues presently as owner/operator. Some may remember that the building was also the Sears catalog depot for many years, ending in 2017.

The original building was torn down in 2015, when the new Salisbury Pharmacy building was opened on the same lot, further back off of Main Street and slightly to the west.

Pharmacy before it was torn down in 2015

Pharmacy Today